PERFORMANCE COMMENTARY

The dramatic EU summit announcement that European banks would receive aid directly from the region's permanent bail-out fund, the ESM, quickly ran into trouble as a number of EU countries, including Finland, the Netherlands and Germany, seemed to hesitate over the decision.

Once again economic data disappointed with Q2 GDP growth in the US and China slowing down to 1.5% and 7.6% respectively, after 2.0% and 8.1% gains in Q1. Across the Atlantic, the eurozone remained mired in recession. Oil topped US$100 a barrel following tensions over Iran and Syria and an oil strike in Norway.

As markets wobbled, global central banks went on the offensive. The ECB, Denmark and China cut interest rates, while the Bank of England raised the size of its asset-purchase programme by £50 billion to £375 billion. This did little to ease concerns as Spanish and Italian borrowing costs soared back into the danger zone. Spain, Italy and Greece all announced further austerity measures, while Greece asked its lenders for a three-year extension to its bail-out programme till 2017.

With markets poised to fall sharply, Germany and Finland saved the day by endorsing the decision to use the eurozone's rescue fund to help Spanish banks. And the ECB's President, Mario Draghi, announced that the central bank "would do whatever it takes to protect the euro", a message echoed by Germany and France. The comments stoked optimism that the ECB and the US Fed will provide further stimulus measures.

According to the South African Reserve Bank's 2012 annual economic report, growth remains "pedestrian", with the manufacturing sector vulnerable because of the European crisis. After nine MPC meetings with no changes, the SARB cut the repo rate by 50 basis points to 5.0%, taking the prime rate to 8.5%. The CPI came in at 5.5% year-on-year in June, while the PPI remained unchanged at 6.6%.

On the political front, credit ratings agencies expressed disappointment over the failure of the ANC Policy Conference in June to clarify its approach to the nationalisation of mines. The equity market roared ahead, with the FTSE/JSE All Share Index gaining 2.7% despite the Resources sector giving up 2% in performance. The bond market continued to benefit from foreign buying, rising 4.0%, while the Rand weakened by 1.5% against the US dollar.
